

The time of enticing mermaids carrying away sailors into the ocean's depths with their singing has ended.

Along with mentalities and superstitions, these mythological characters have evolved too. Mermaids have become the symbol of aquatic life and genetic mutation.

Artist and scientist are both looking for new "form of life".

By this work, I wanted to express aquaculture through mermaids.

From the DNA helix is born the fusion of aquaculture and genetics. This woman and this man are in complete symbiosis, tending together to the top, the new, and the best.

